Postal Regulatory Commissioners:

I am writing to ask that you halt the ten year plan proposed by the postal service.

We are in our seventies and live in rural Iowa. We farmed for forty years. We depended on the mail service to deliver for us when we couldn't get to town. Now that we are retired and have access to the internet, I could pay our bills online. I don't, however, want to share our banking information. I receive time-sensitive material through the mail. A delay in delivery would make that correspondence useless.

Finally, we look forward to getting the mail. Let us enjoy this service.

Thank you,

Janet Oetemeier
