

The closing of the Hacker Valley Post Office has created a number of problems for our home based office. We have come to rely on the local post office for both receiving and sending communications to our customers and prospects. What was once a five minute trip, it now a 45 minute round trip. We have a small staff, and the added time and costs of this extra travel is making doing business from this great little community much more difficult.

Any consideration in providing this service to our community will benefit our company as well as many many of our neighbors.
