POSTAL REGULATORY COMMISSION

Dear Postal Regulatory Commission Members:

I am greatly distressed about Director Louis DeJoy's latest plan to further decimate the U S Postal Service.

I am 90 years old with health issues and limited means. I no longer drive and use a walker for short distances. The post box, two blocks away, is convenient and still doable for me. If it were removed, I don't know what I would do to keep in touch with my family and friends. I don't have a computer. My friend Rachael is writing this letter for me because she knows how important the postal service is for me.

I'm also concerned about reducing the hours and moving the post office further away. With the few dollars I have, I don't want to spend it all on taxis and with the hours now, occasionally Rachael can take a little time to take me there. What will old people like me do if they don't have a Rachael in their lives if you make it so difficult? You should be ashamed of yourselves.

Yours sincerely,
