

Before the
POSTAL REGULATORY COMMISSION
WASHINGTON, DC 20268-0001

Market Test of Experimental Product -
Collaborative Logistics

Docket No. MT2009-1

PUBLIC REPRESENTATIVE QUESTIONS FOR THE POSTAL SERVICE
(April 14, 2009)

The Public Representative hereby submits the following questions to the Postal Service, the answers to which will assist in the filing of helpful comments in response to Commission Order No. 199:

1. Please identify the name of the "similar product" offered previously by the Postal Service, which was referenced in footnote 1 of the Notice.
2. Please provide any other generic names or descriptors used to refer to products such as Collaborative Logistics of which the Postal Service is readily aware.
3. Is the Postal Service aware of any offerings of products similar to Collaborative Logistics from national posts or postal incumbent operators in other countries? If so, please identify each such operator, the name of each product, and (to the degree the Postal Service is aware) whether or not it is currently offered.

4. What reasons does the Postal Service have for categorizing Collaborative Logistics as a postal product (as opposed to a non-postal product)?
5. Please describe generally the methodology by which the costs of this product will be estimated?

---

Michael J. Ravnitzky
Public Representative

901 New York Ave., NW Suite 200
Washington, D.C. 20268-0001
(202) 789-6812 Fax (202) 789-6883
michael.ravnitzky@prc.gov