Part III – Narrative

The United States Postal Service (“Postal Service”) cannot file the Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ending on September 30, 2014, within the prescribed time period. As publicly announced and reported in the Current Report on Form 8-K filed on November 14, 2014, the Postal Service recently became aware of a cyber intrusion to some of its information systems. As a result of the cyber intrusion, the Postal Service is employing an extensive process to ensure that the integrity of its financial data systems and financial information was not comprised. These efforts have caused a delay in obtaining all of the information required for the Annual Report.

The Postal Service began investigating the cyber security incident as soon as management became aware of it. The Postal Service is working closely with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Department of Justice, the USPS Office of Inspector General, the Postal Inspection Service, and the U.S. Computer Emergency Readiness Team. Additionally, the Postal Service is working with private sector specialists in forensic investigation and data systems to assist with the investigation and remediation to ensure a comprehensive approach to this event, and in order to understand the full implications of the intrusion.

As part of the ongoing investigation, the Postal Service is seeking to confirm that the cyber intrusion did not affect the internal controls over financial reporting. The Postal Service does not believe that the cyber intrusion or the costs of responding to it will have a material impact on its internal financial controls, results of operations or financial condition. Nevertheless, in an abundance of caution, the Postal Service requires additional time to file the Annual Report on Form 10-K to conduct an additional audit in order to ensure that the cyber intrusion did not compromise financial data systems and information.
